

eBay is allowing sellers to contribute a portion of their proceeds to the organization of their choice. CODA is now a registered charity in the “eBay Giving Works” program.

When setting up your listing, go to the charity directory, select “CODA (Citizens Opposed to Domestic Abuse)” and designate the percentage of the proceeds you wish to donate. Your listing will have an eBay Giving Works ribbon on it so that the philanthropically motivated may be more interested in purchasing from you.

To reward you, at the time of the sale, Giving Works will not only pass on your donation to CODA but also credit back your insertion and final value fees by the percentage you selected to donate.

You can track your giving, get tax receipts and explore other cool features. To learn more about the program and how to support CODA in a meaningful but painless way, go to: <http://www.ebaygivingworks.com/sell.html>
